Chatlator

FACT SHEET

Learn a language by texting your friends.

WHAT IT IS

Chatlator is a messaging app for language learners. Users text in their native language, just like they normally do, but they see every message in both their native language and the language they're learning. They get full immersion, with no extra effort!

HOW IT WORKS

- Chat. Text friends as normal. Every message appears in both languages, and friends don't even need to be learning the same language.
- Chati. A personal AI language coach that works across the app, personalising hints, quizzes and practice.
- Learn. Daily quizzes built from the words you actually use, plus the most common words in your new language.
- Games. Flipword: spell a word from your letters, then pick its translation to bank the points.

THE FOUNDER STORY

Andrew Bunyan spent years trying to learn Spanish. The apps he tried felt like homework, taught words he'd never use and needed time he didn't have. But he was texting his friends all day anyway, so he asked: what if those texts were the lesson? So he built Chatlator.

> "We chose to use messaging as our foundation because it allows us to give language learners exactly what they don't get elsewhere: time, immersion and personalised help."
>
> Andrew Bunyan, co-founder

KEY FACTS

Company	Chatlator Ltd
Founders	Andrew Bunyan (London) and Michael Boggia (New York)
Platforms	iOS and Android
Price	Free
Languages	50+
Website	chatlator.com
Social media	@chatlator_app on Instagram and TikTok

Press: Michael Boggia · michael@chatlator.com

General: hello@chatlator.com